BRENTS ARRESTS TWO ON BOOTLEGGING CHARGE

Ed Brents arrested Grover Gaar and Crowie Latimore, a negro, yesterday for selling booze. Both were caught with the goods.

When arrested Gaar threw two bottles that he had in his pocket against the pavement and broke them. Then Brents found his suitcase in his room which was arranged in such a manner that it would hold exactly four one-gallon bottles. All four bottles were full.

The negro was caught under rather humorous circumstances. Brents was getting a shave in a barber shop and the negro was shining shoes in the same room. Some one came in and asked the negro for a bottle of whiskey. The negro, not knowing that Mr. Brents was a Federal officer, delivered the whiskey immediately. On request the buyer gave up the whiskey and was retained for a witness.

PREPARING FOR COUNTY EXHIBIT

A. L. KENNEDY WILL TRY TO ARRANGE FOR EXHIBIT OF PONTOTOC AT STATE FAIR.

If given any support whatever, A. L. Kennedy, farm demonstration agent for Pontotoc county will see to it that this county is well represented in exhibits at the state fair in September. He will apply for space and will receive and collect the best specimens of products of the county and have them properly arranged and displayed. The county has never had a special exhibit at the fair before, but it is in a position to make a splendid showing.

It is becoming a matter of supreme importance that every county be represented at these state fairs, for thousands of prospective immigrants visit them annually, and as a rule they are greatly influenced in their selection of a new location by the impression made by the exhibits. Pontotoc county needs more progressive farmers to aid in the development of its resources, and can easily add to this desirable class of immigrants by exhibiting some of the fine products raised here.

BOYS AND GIRLS WILL EXHIBIT PRODUCTS

On September 17 the annual exhibit of the boys and girls agricultural clubs of Pontotoc county will be held at Ada. Mr. F. F. Ferguson of the demonstration department will be here and will assist in judging the exhibits. A few months ago A. L. Kennedy demonstration agent for Pontotoc county, secured subscriptions to a good sized fund which will be distributed among the young contestants. In view of the good crops of this season, it is expected that exhibits will be unusually fine for a number of boys and girls in different parts of the county are preparing to enter the contests. The best of the exhibits will be sent to the state fair, and there is no reason why they should not bring some valuable premiums as in times past.

MANY NEW FACES IN NEXT LEGISLATURE

The next house of representatives in Oklahoma will be a body of new members, as hardly a baker's dozen of the second legislature have been re-nominated. Among those who have been successful are Maxey, Teehee, Crawford, Williams, Durant and Peters. Among those defeated for re-nomination were Cox, Lewis, Akin, Peebly, Jayne and Hammond. A number of representatives offered for some other office and were in almost every case defeated. Perry and Cornell were beaten for congress in the Second district, Steen and Baldwin were defeated for the senate, McElhenny and Johnson for county commissioner, Chambers and Breedlove for county judge, Harris for county attorney, New for county treasurer and Folsom for district clerk. It seems as if the people had determined to defeat the representatives wherever they showed themselves. An exception to the general rule of slaughter was the case of Charlie Barrett of Shawnee who was nominated for state senator from his district.

Spanish War Veterans' Meeting. Guthrie, Ok., Aug. 20.—Chris Madsen, quartermaster general of the Rough Rider regiment during the Cuban War, received today from Atlantic City notification of the National encampment of the Spanish-American War Veterans Association, which is to be held there on Sept. 10-13. A number of Oklahoma veterans will attend. Col. Roosevelt is to speak.

FATHER OF THE STEEL TRUST

Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 21.—John Fritz, known far and wide as the father of the steel industry in the United States, attained his ninetieth birthday anniversary today. The dinner given at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York ten years ago in celebration of the eightieth birthday of Mr. Fritz is still remembered as one of the most remarkable gatherings ever assembled in this country of captains of invention and industry and the central figures of finance allied with the iron trade.

It was hoped that some similar affair might be held to commemorate Mr. Fritz's ninetieth year, but the precarious condition of his health caused the idea to be abandoned. For the past six months the veteran ironmaster has been in very poor health and during much of the time has been bedfast. During this time messages of inquiry and cheer have been received at his home almost daily from leading men in the iron and steel world, from Andrew Carnegie down to the active present day plant managers, many of whom in years past numbered among Mr. Fritz's "boys."

John Fritz long ago earned his title of father of the steel industry not by any single invention or discovery, but by a contribution of new devices, new methods and practical work in building up the industry in the United States. With only a district school education gained near a birthplace in the middle part of Pennsylvania, he gained a position in the steel industry that has been recognized by the whole world.

At the age of 16 Mr. Fritz left his father's farm to work in a country machine shop, with a view of learning the trade of a machinist. After various experiments in steel making at Norristown and Safe Harbor, he went to Johnstown where he remodeled an old mill and built what is now known as the Cambria Iron Works. It was at this time that, in connection with his brother George, he designed and erected the well known "three high bloomers," with their automatic tables and the "three high mill." These inventions started an economical revolution in steel manufacture.

When the United States Government some twenty-five years ago, decided to build a modern navy of armor-plated vessels equipped with guns of great calibre, there was no plant in the country where the plates, guns and forgings for such ships could be made. Bethlehem was selected as the site for the projected plant and Mr. Fritz was chosen as the man to build it. He went to Europe and spent some months in studying the plate and gun making plants there, and when he returned he built a plant that surpassed its European models. Among other features it contained the greatest hammer and the most powerful press in the world. When Mr.

Fritz built this, the first armor plant in America, such men as Schwab, Corey and others who subsequently became famous in the steel industry, were still boys.

Mr. Fritz is the only man now living of the small group that introduced into the United States the Bessemer steel process. A great economical revolution was thus effected, from which has flowed the tremendous development seen today in steel manufacture in the United States. In 1893 the British Iron and Steel Institute gave Mr. Fritz the Bessemer gold medal, which is the highest distinction a steelmaker can receive.

Oftentimes the News gets requests from people to keep their names out of the paper when they do something that is contrary to law and that they are ashamed for people to know. The News has often accommodated unfortunate people of this class, when it is a case of misfortune or the first mistake. However, when a person continues his wayward course the News does not consider it its duty to keep the matter from the public. The public wants to know what is going on in the town, and a man should think of these things and of the humiliation to his family before he commits the act he will later want kept from the press, and it is not in a spirit of malice that the paper publishes such things. It would much prefer that there was never any occasion to publish anything discreditable about any one. It would be much more pleasant if nothing ever happened in the community, except something that every citizen might be proud to see in print.

An American Kid.

If one should ask if you were interested in the Astor baby you would indignantly and most emphatically reply that you were not. Yet you read all the particulars of the "interesting event" in the newspapers with evident delight. No use denying the fact. We caught you trying to find out all the details of the momentous affair in the Astor family through the agency of your newspaper.

But why be amazed? Stork visits are the best human interest stories we can imagine. They throw a neighborhood into a turmoil of excitement even though the little visitor is a humble occupant of a small cot. Why shouldn't the nation grow enthusiastic over the arrival of a new heir to the Astor fortune? If it were not for us millions there would be no Astor millions.

We read with interest the announcement that Mrs. Astor embroidered with infinite care the little gowns the babe should wear. She could have bought the best that money could buy or she might have employed the Nation's most expert seamstress. But, no she was just a mother after all.

Generations of wealth and luxury could not drive the mother instinct from Mrs. Astor.

We shall watch with much interest and we are not ashamed of it, the career of Young John Jacob Astor. May he be as brave as his father who died like a man when the Titanic carried its hundreds to a watery grave. He's a real American kid. Don't blame him for his millions. He's not responsible.—Dallas Times Herald.

TAFT ELECTORS WILL GET NAMES ON TICKET

Chicago, Aug. 21.—Former United States Senator Chester I. Long of Kansas held a conference with David W. Mulvane at republican headquarters today.

He said if the supreme court decides against the republican organization in the fight over the official ballot, the names of Taft electors will be placed in the independent column on the ticket. He said such arrangement had been agreed upon by the Taft leaders.

New Normal Bulletin Is Now Out.

The new Normal bulletin is now out and ready to be distributed. It is one of the best ever issued by the school. Besides announcing the different things relative to the progress of the school, it contains cuts of the building, the grounds, and a number of the different rooms. This bulletin will be mailed to the teachers and prospective student in the East Central Normal district, which composes eleven counties.

Within another week, the members of the faculty will begin coming in again, and the preparations for the greatest opening in the history of the school will be made. From the present prospects, the enrollment this year will exceed that of last year by at least twenty-five per cent. The new rooming places and boarding houses will make things a great deal more convenient for the boarding students.

Mrs. G. M. Dawkins, 406 E. Fourteenth street, Ada, Okla., says: "We always keep Doan's Kidney Pills in the house to have in case of need. I had a backache and at times was nervous and dizzy. At night I was restless and in the morning felt all tired out. Seeing Doan's Pills advertised, I began using them and they did me a world of good. One of my children had rheumatic pains and other symptoms of kidney complaint. In this case Doan's Kidney Pills also gave great relief."

YOUNG MOTHERS

No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both herself and the coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. Mother's Friend prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. It works with and for nature, and by gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, involved, and keeping the breasts in good condition, brings the woman to the crisis in splendid physical condition. The baby, too, is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. No better advice could be given a young expectant mother than that she use Mother's Friend; it is a medicine that has proven its value in thousands of cases. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature. BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Are You Right or Left Eared?

"Which is your telephone ear?" That, according to a "hello girl," is a question which, if propounded to the thousands of people who gossip over the wires every day, would result in a far better understanding between them.

"Every one has one ear that is better than the other," she theorize. And yet if you will notice you will see that 999 cases out of a thousand the person at the phone places the receiver to the left ear. It is because the receiver is hung on that side of the instrument. The wire is always long enough so that the receiver can be held to the right ear, but this never seems to occur to the party.

"He may be half deaf in his left ear and may be perfectly sound of hearing with the right, but this makes no difference. There he sits and fumes and struggles and perspires trying to find out what the person on the other end of line is trying to say and all the time he is merely delaying the game by making his 'tin ear' do the work. I'm thinking of putting up a sign here over the booths, 'Are you right or left eared? Find out before calling your number.'"

"That's right, too," said the sister operator. "Half these fellows that get their numbers mixed up and then want to get your job could save them selves lots of worry and trouble by going to a physician and allowing him to pick the 'good ear.' When you're talking to a man lots of times he'll turn his head just a little to hear better; and yet this same man will wiggle into a telephone booth and sob his heart out because we poor girls can't bring back the hearing to his dead auricular."—Chickasha Express.

South Dakota Plans Highway.

Pierre, S. D., Aug. 21.—A state good roads congress assembled here today to discuss the project for a great highway to be built north and south through South Dakota and to extend into North Dakota to the mouth of the Yellowstone. The proposed road would open up a large and picturesque section of country that at present is almost inaccessible to tourist travel.

NEW BUILDINGS

Of George Peabody College for Teachers.

A few days ago excavation was begun for the manual training building, the first structure to be erected on the beautiful new, fifty-acre site of George Peabody College for teachers, Nashville, Tenn. It is proposed to have four new buildings ready by September, 1913, and, at that time, with an especially able faculty to open for students.

In quick succession the domestic economy building, a dormitory for women, and the psychology building will be erected. The cost of these four buildings to be completed within the next twelve months is estimated at about $350,000. The style of architecture will be Classic, with many details of Southern colonial. The whole group of buildings will present one harmonious style, with modifications sufficient to secure pleasing variety. None of the structures will be over three stories high. A series of units is planned and buildings will be grouped for convenience, architectural effect and greatest possible service. The best architects and landscape designer procurable, the college trustees and President Payne, assisted by an advisory board of specialists, have planned with care and skill the general layout of the buildings and grounds. This gives assurance that the College will have an educational plant modern, convenient and efficient.

It is contemplated that two or three buildings will be added each year until the whole scheme is carried out.

Peabody College, which was founded thirty-seven years ago as the leading normal school of the south, has already accomplished one phase of its work. It can now count nearly forty normal schools supported by Southern states to carry on the work then begun. Its graduates and former students number over eight thousand, and they are, in most cases, performing valuable service. And now, on a splendid new site and with larger resources

George Peabody College for Teachers will enter upon its new phase of teacher training service. It will respond to the changed needs in Southern education. It is intended that it shall be a great Teachers' College. It will not conflict with our valuable teacher training institutions, but will be of assistance to them all and will supplement their work.

Adjacent to the Peabody campus are the attractive grounds of Vanderbilt University. It is proposed that these two institutions, though separate and independent, shall exchange educational facilities, and it is hoped and believed that this co-operation will promote greatly the interest of education in the South.

CONVENTION HELD IN FOUR WARDS

This afternoon the democratic precinct conventions were held in the various wards of Ada and delegates chosen to the county convention which will be held Saturday. As there was no special issue to be settled, the meetings were very quiet and good humored affairs.

FIRST WARD.

The First Ward Democrats elected John P. Crawford chairman and P. M. Bobbitt secretary. After electing delegates to the county convention a resolution was unanimously adopted endorsing the candidacy of John P. Crawford for the speakership of the house. Gusher at Coalgate.

Coalgate, Okla., Aug. 21.—The well drilled on the farm of A. Cunningham, northeast of Coalgate has proved a gusher and the output will be sufficient to provide several towns the size of Coalgate with all the gas needed. Other drilling operations are under way with the hope of discovering oil. The discovery of gas bears out the prediction made some years ago by former State Geologist Charles N. Gould that oil and gas would be found east of Coalgate.

COMMANDER OF SALVATION ARMY PASSES AWAY

London, Aug. 20.—Rev. William Booth, General and Commander-in-Chief of the Salvation Army, died at 10:13 o'clock tonight. He was born at Nottingham in 1829. The veteran Salvation Army leader was unconscious for forty-eight hours previous to death. The medical bulletins had revealed the seriousness of the General's condition, which for a week past, it is now admitted, was hopeless.

Twelve weeks ago Gen. Booth underwent an operation for the removal of a cataract in his left eye. For two days after the operation indications justified the hope of the general's recovery. Then septic poisoning set in and from that time, with the exception of occasional rallies, the patient's health steadily declined. The general recognized that the end was near and often spoke of his work as being finished.

Throughout the commander in chief's illness, his son, Bramwell Booth, chief of staff of the army, and Mrs. Bramwell Booth, gave their unremitting attentions to him both night and day.

The aged evangelist died at his residence, the Bookstone, Hadleywood, some eight miles from London, where he had been confined to his bed ever since the operation.

"'Twas a fool quarrel, same as that kind gen'rally are. As much my fault as his and as much his as mine, I calculate. Anyhow, we was both proud, or thought we was, and neither would give in. And he says to me, 'You'll be sorry after I'm gone. You'll wish me back, then.' And says I, bein' a fool, I guess not. There's other fish in the sea." He sailed and I did wish him back, but I wouldn't write fust and neither would he. And then come another man."

She paused, hesitated, and then continued. "Never mind about the other man. He was handsome then, in a way, and he had money to spend, and he liked me. He wanted me to marry him. If— if the other, the one that went away, had written I never would have thought of such a thing, but he didn't write. And, my pride bein' hurt, and all, I finally said yes to the second chap."

"Well, for the first year 'twasn't so bad. Not happiness exactly, but not misery either. That come later. His people was well off and he'd never worked much of any. He did for a little while after we was married, but not for long. Then he begun to drink and carry on and lost his place. Pretty soon he begun to neglect me and at last went off to sea afore the mast. We was poor as poverty, but I could have stood that; I did stand it. I took in sewin' and kept up an appearance, somehow. Never told a soul. His folks come patronizin' around and offered me money, so's I needn't disgrace them. I sent 'em rightabout in a hurry. Once in a while he'd come home, get tipsy and abuse me. Still I said nothin'. 'Thank God, there was no children; that's the one thing I've been thankful for.'

"You can't keep such things quiet always. People are bound to find out. They come to me and said, 'Why don't you leave him?' but I wouldn't. I could have divorced him easy enough, there was reasons plenty, but I wouldn't do that. Then word came that he was dead, drowned off in the East Indies somewhere. I come back here to keep house for Sol, my brother, and I kept house for him till he died and they offered me this place here at the parsonage. There! that's my story, part of it, more'n I ever told a livin' soul afore, except Sol."

She ceased speaking. The minister, who had sat silent by the window, apathetically listening or trying to listen, turned his head.

"I apologize, Mrs. Coffin," he said gully, "you have had trials, hard ones. But—"

"But they ain't as hard as yours, you think? Well, I haven't quite finished yet. After word come of my husband's death, the other man come and wanted me to marry him. And I wanted to—oh, how I wanted to! I cared as much for him as I ever did; more, I guess. But I wouldn't—I wouldn't, though it wrung my heart out to say no. I give him up—why? 'cause I thought I had a duty laid on me."

Ellery sighed. "I can see but one duty," he said. "That is the duty given us by God, to marry the one we love."

Keziah's agitation, which had grown as she told her story, suddenly flashed into flame.

"Is that as far as you can see?" she asked fiercely. "It's an easy duty, then—or looks 'easy now. I've got a harder one; it's to stand by the promise I gave and the man I married."

He looked at her as if he thought she had lost her wits.

"The man you married?" he replied. "Why, the man you married is dead."

"No, he ain't. You remember the letter you saw me readin' that night when you come back from Come-Outers' meetin'?"

Well, that letter was from him. He's alive. Yes, he's alive. Alive and knockin' round the world somewhere. Every little while he writes me for money and, if I have any, I send it to him. Why? Why 'cause I'm a coward, after all, I guess, and I'm scared he'll do what he says he will and come back. Perhaps you think I'm a fool to put up with it; that's what most folks would say if they knew it. They'd tell me I ought to divorce him. Well, I can't, I can't. I walked into the mess blindfolded; I married him in spite of warnin's and everything. I took him for better or for worse, and now that he's turned out worse, I must take my medicine. I can't live with him—that I can't do—but while he lives I'll stay his wife and give him what money I can spare. That's the duty I told you was laid on me, and it's a hard one, but I don't run away from it."

She stopped short; then covering her face with her apron, she ran from the room. John Ellery heard her descending the stairs, sobbing as she went.

All that afternoon he remained in his chair by the window. It was six o'clock, supper time, when he entered the kitchen. Keziah, looking up from the ironing board, saw him. He was white and worn and grim, but he held out his hand to her.

"Mrs. Coffin," he said, "I'm not going away. You've shown me what devotion to duty really means. I shall stay here and go on with my work." Her face lit up. "Will you?" she said. "I thought you would. I was sure you was that kind."

CHAPTER XIII.

In Which the Sea Mist Sails.

They buried Captain Eben in the Little Come-Outers cemetery at the rear of the chapel. The Come-Outers were there, all of them, and some members of the Regular society, Captain Zeb Mayo, Dr. Parker, Keziah Coffin, Mrs. Higgins and Ike. The little company filed out of the cemetery, and Captain

They Shook Hands and Parted.

Eben Hammond was but a memory in Trumet.

Keziah lingered to speak a word with Grace. The girl, looking very white and worn, leaned on the arm of Captain Nat, whose big body acted as a buffer between her and oversympathetic Come-Outers. Mrs. Coffin silently held out both hands and Grace took them eagerly.

"Auntie," she whispered, "tell me: Did a letter—Did he—"

"Yes, it came. I gave it to him."

"Did—did he tell you? Do you know?"

"Yes, I know, deary."

"Did he—Is he—"

"He's well, deary. He'll be all right. I'll look out for him."

"You will, won't you? You won't let him do anything—"

"Not a thing. Don't worry. We've had a long talk and he's going to stay right here and go on with his work. And nobody else'll ever know."

"O Aunt Keziah! If I could be one half as patient and brave and sweet as you are—"

"Sssh! here comes Nat. Be kind to him. He's sufferin', too; maybe more'n you imagine. Here she is, Nat. Take her back home and be good to her."

"I tell you," broke in the voice of Captain Zeb Mayo, "Keziah, I've been waitin' for you. Get in my shay and I'll drive you back to the parsonage."

Mrs. Coffin accepted the invitation and a seat in the chaise beside Captain Zeb. The captain spoke of the dead Come-Outers and of his respect for him in spite of the difference in creed. He also spoke of the Rev. John Ellery and of the affection he had come to feel for the young man.

"I'm glad to hear you say so. Of course Cap'n Elkanah is boss of the parish committee and—"

"What? No, he ain't nuther. He's head of it, but his vote counts just one and no more. What makes you say that?"

"Oh, nuthin'. Only I thought maybe, long as Elkanah was feelin' that Mr. Ellery wasn't orthodox enough, he might be goin' to make a change. I didn't mean to stir you up, Zeb."

But from things Cap'n Daniels has said I gathered that he was runnin' the committee. And, as I'm a friend of Mr. Ellery, it—"

"Friend! Well, so'm I, ain't I? If you ever hear of Daniels tryin' any tricks against the minister, you send for me, that's all. I'll show him. Boss! Humph!"

The wily Keziah alighted at the parsonage gate with the feeling that she had sown seed in fertile ground. She was quite aware of Captain Zeb's jealousy of the great Daniels. And the time might come when her parson needed an influential friend on the committee and in the Regular society.

The news of the engagement between Captain Nat Hammond and Grace Van Horne, told by Dr. Parker to one or two of his patients, spread through Trumet like measles through a family of small children. Annabel Daniels and her father had not expected it. They were, however, greatly pleased. In their discussion, which lasted far into the night, Captain Elkanah expressed the opinion that the unexpected denouement was the result of his interview with Eben.

"I think, pa," she said, "that it's our duty, yours and mine, to treat him just as we always have. He doesn't know that we know, and we will keep the secret. And, as Christians, we should forget and forgive."

Kyan Pepper was another whom the news of the engagement surprised greatly. When Lavinia told him of it, at the dinner table, he dropped the knife he was holding and the greasy section of fishball balanced upon it.

Remembering what he had seen in the grove he could not understand; but he also remembered, even more vividly, what Keziah Coffin had promised to do if he ever breathed a word. And he vowed again that that word should not be breathed.

Keziah was the life of the gloomy parsonage. Without her the minister would have broken down. He called her "Aunt Keziah" at her request and she continued to call him "John." This was in private, of course; in public he was "Mr. Ellery" and she "Mrs. Coffin."

RECORD OF PEACH SHIPMENTS FROM ADA

The peach season has closed, so far as this section is concerned, and being the first time that the fruit was shipped to any extent in car load lots, must be counted as highly successful.

From figures given by W. J. Boyer of the A. R. T. Co. Ada is credited with 22 cars, Konawa 18, Tyrula 4, Tupelo 14, a total of 58 cars, of which 51 were moved jointly by the American Refrigerator Transit Co. and the Katy railroad. These went to various eastern markets, Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City, Scranton, Pa., St. Louis and Pittsburg included. The quality was about average, but could be improved at least 100 per cent by close attention to trees early in the season.

To handle this large quantity of fruit 694,800 pounds of ice was used, nearly all of which was purchased from the Ada factory, and Mr. Boyer estimates that 350,000 pounds more would be used for re-icing en route. He hopes that fully three times as much will be shipped from Ada next year, and extends his thanks on behalf of the company and himself for the courtesies shown him while here, and also wishes this section a busy and happy season.

Manager Frick of the ice factory, says that including the cars re-iced, he supplied 91 cars during the rush. Some of these that he iced came from as far as Shawnee.

Not a bit of us can see Niagara Falls in reality, but this evening every one may see them as the moving picture artists makes possible, and that is almost as good. The great cataract in all its grandeur is shown. Also, one is given a view of the rapids above and below the falls, as well as every detail of this wonder of nature. In addition to this picture, there will be a breezy western comedy, A Western Legacy. At the Majestic this evening.

Miss Helen Baker, who was teacher of piano in the Normal last year, returned to Ada yesterday. She has been spending the summer in Canada and announces that the weather is cool and pleasant up there. By some means, however, she says it was not so good but that she still had a yearning for the breezes of Oklahoma.

BRENTS ARRESTS TWO ON BOOTLEGGING CHARGE

Ed Brents arrested Grover Gaar and Crowie Lattimore, a negro, yesterday for selling booze. Both were caught with the goods.

When arrested Gaar threw two bottles that he had in his pocket against the pavement and broke them. Then Brents found his suitcase in his room which was arranged in such a manner that it would hold exactly four one-gallon bottles. All four bottles were full.

The negro was caught under rather humorous circumstances. Brents was getting a shave in a barber shop and the negro was shining shoes in the same room. Some one came in and asked the negro for a bottle of whiskey. The negro, not knowing that Mr. Brents was a Federal officer, delivered the whiskey immediately. On request the buyer gave up the whiskey and was retained for a witness.

Brents left with his two prisoners this morning for Muskogee where he will place them in the Federal jail.

Col. Swamp Campbell, clerk of the supreme court, is spending the month of August in the mountain district of Colorado.

LEGISLATURE MAY ABOLISH COUNTY OFFICES

Oklahoma City, Aug. 21—In reply to an inquiry from Governor Lee Cruce, the attorney general has held that a law passed at the regular session of the legislature to abolish county offices after the officers are elected and qualified would be valid as to incumbents at that time. It is held that except where the constitution creates an office and prescribes its terms, or specifically limits the legislature, the legislature has power to abolish the office or limit the term.

It is pointed out that the section of the constitution creating the various county offices does so "subject to change by the legislature" and that it provides that terms shall not be extended, but does not say that they can not be shortened. It is held that the provision prohibiting any change in compensation during term of office would not prevent the abolishment of the office.

The opinion further holds that deputies can be abolished or their compensation changed at any time as they do not hold for a fixed term.

WAS AFRAID THE "WIDDER" WOULD ROPE HIM IN

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Aug. 20—Charles P. Means, 85 years old, a retired farmer of Cottonville, yesterday visited a barber shop for the first time in his life and had his hair and beard cut by a barber.

Mr. Means said that when a boy his mother always cut his hair, and after he married his wife acted as his barber. Since her death a few years ago he has permitted his hair to grow. Recently, hearing a young widow of the neighborhood remarked that she believed that Mr. Means would be a good-looking man if he would get from behind that large growth of whiskers, he visited a shop and received his first haircut from a barber and the first shave in the 85 years of his existence.

PREPARING FOR COUNTY EXHIBIT

A. L. KENNEDY WILL TRY TO ARRANGE FOR EXHIBIT OF PONTOTOC AT STATE FAIR

If given any support whatever, A. L. Kennedy, farm demonstration agent for Pontotoc county will see to it that this county is well represented in exhibits at the state fair in September. He will apply for space and will receive and collect the best specimens of products of the county and have them properly arranged and displayed. The county has never had a special exhibit at the fair before, but it is in a position to make a splendid showing.

It is becoming a matter of supreme importance that every county be represented at these state fairs, for thousands of prospective immigrants visit them annually, and as a rule they are greatly influenced in their selection of a new location by the impression made by the exhibits. Pontotoc county needs more progressive farmers to aid in the development of its resources, and can easily add to this desirable class of immigrants by exhibiting some of the fine products raised here.

BOYS AND GIRLS WILL EXHIBIT PRODUCTS

On September 17 the annual exhibit of the boys and girls agricultural clubs of Pontotoc county will be held at Ada. Mr. F. F. Ferguson of the demonstration department will be here and will assist in judging the exhibits. A few months ago A. L. Kennedy demonstration agent for Pontotoc county, secured subscriptions to a good sized fund which will be distributed among the young contestants. In view of the good crops of this season, it is expected that exhibits will be unusually fine for a number of boys and girls in different parts of the county are preparing to enter the contests. The best of the exhibits will be sent to the state fair, and there is no reason why they should not bring some valuable premiums as in times past.

MANY NEW FACES IN NEXT LEGISLATURE

The next house of representatives in Oklahoma will be a body of new members, as hardly a baker's dozen of the second legislature have been re-nominated. Among those who have been successful are Mavey, Tewhee, Crawford, Williams, Durant and Peters. Among those defeated for re-nomination were Cox, Lewis, Akin, Peebly, Jayne and Hammond. A number of representatives offered for some other office and were in almost every case defeated. Perry and Cornell were beaten for congress in the Second district, Steen and Baldwin were defeated for the senate, McElhenny and Johnson for county commissioner, Chambers and Breedlove for county judge, Harris for county attorney, New for county treasurer and Folsom for district clerk. It seems as if the people had determined to defeat the representatives wherever they showed themselves. An exception to the general rule of slaughter was the case of Charlie Barrett of Shawnee who was nominated for state senator from his district.

FATHER OF THE STEEL TRUST

Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 21—John Fritz, known far and wide as the father of the steel industry in the United States, attained his ninetieth birthday anniversary today. The dinner given at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York ten years ago in celebration of the eightieth birthday of Mr. Fritz is still remembered as one of the most remarkable gatherings ever assembled in this country of captains of invention and industry and the central figures of finance allied with the iron trade.

It was hoped that some similar affair might be held to commemorate Mr. Fritz's ninetieth year, but the precarious condition of his health caused the idea to be abandoned. For the past six months the veteran ironmaster has been in very poor health and during much of the time has been bedfast. During this time messages of inquiry and cheer have been received at his home almost daily from leading men in the iron and steel world, from Andrew Carnegie down to the active present day plant managers, many of whom in years past numbered among Mr. Fritz's "boys."

John Fritz long ago earned his title of father of the steel industry not by any single invention or discovery, but by a contribution of new devices, new methods and practical work in building up the industry in the United States. With only a district school education gained near a birthplace in the middle part of Pennsylvania, he gained a position in the steel industry that has been recognized by the whole world.

At the age of 16 Mr. Fritz left his father's farm to work in a country machine shop, with a view of learning the trade of a machinist. After various experiments in steel making at Norristown and Safe Harbor, he went to Johnstown where he remedied an old mill and built what is now known as the Cambria Iron Works. It was at this time that, in connection with his brother George, he designed and erected the well known "three high bloomers," with their automatic tables and the "three high mill." These inventions started an economical revolution in steel manufacture.

When the United States Government some twenty-five years ago, decided to build a modern navy of armor-plated vessels equipped with guns of great calibre, there was no plant in the country where the plates, guns and forgings for such ships could be made. Bethlehem was selected as the site for the projected plant and Mr. Fritz was chosen as the man to build it. He went to Europe and spent some months in studying the plate and gun making plants there, and when he returned he built a plant that surpassed its European models. Among other features it contained the greatest hammer and the most powerful press in the world. When Mr.

Fritz built this, the first armor plant in America, such men as Schwab, Corey and others who subsequently became famous in the steel industry, were still boys.

Mr. Fritz is the only man now living of the small group that introduced into the United States the Bessemer steel process. A great economical revolution was thus effected, from which has flowed the tremendous development seen today in steel manufacture in the United States. In 1893 the British Iron and Steel Institute gave Mr. Fritz the Bessemer gold medal, which is the highest distinction a steelmaker can receive.

New Normal Bulletin Is Now Out.

The new Normal bulletin is now out and ready to be distributed. It is one of the best ever issued by the school. Besides announcing the different things relative to the progress of the school, it contains cuts of the building, the grounds, and a number of the different rooms. This bulletin will be mailed to the teachers and prospective student in the East Central Normal district, which composes eleven counties.

Within another week, the members of the faculty will begin coming in again, and the preparations for the greatest opening in the history of the school will be made. From the present prospects, the enrollment this year will exceed that of last year by at least twenty-five per cent. The new rooming places and boarding houses will make things a great deal more convenient for the boarding students.

At night I was restless and in the morning felt all tired out. Seeing Doan's Pills advertised, I began using them and they did me a world of good. YOUNG MOTHERS

No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both herself and the coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. Mother's Friend prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. It works with and for nature, and by gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, involved, and keeping the breasts in good condition, brings the woman to the crisis in splendid physical condition. The baby, too, is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. No better advice could be given a young expectant mother than that she use Mother's Friend; it is a medicine that has proven its value in thousands of cases. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for free book for expectant mothers which contains much valuable information, and many suggestions of a helpful nature.

Are You Right or Left Eared?

"Which is your telephone ear?" That according to a "hello girl," is a question which, if propounded to the thousands of people who gossip over the wires every day, would result in a far better understanding between them.

"Every one has one ear that is better than the other," she theorize. And yet if you will notice you will see that 999 cases out of a thousand the person at the phone places the receiver to the left ear. It is because the receiver is hung on that side of the instrument the wire is always long enough so that the receiver can be held to the right ear, but this never seems to occur to the party.

"He may be half deaf in his left ear and may be perfectly sound of hearing with the right, but this makes no difference. There he sits and fumes and struggles and perspires trying to find out what the person on the other end of line is trying to say and all the time he is merely delaying the game by making his 'un ear' do the work. I'm thinking of putting up a sign here over the booths, 'Are you right or left eared?' Find out before calling your number."

"That's right, too," said the sister operator. "Half these fellows that get their numbers mixed up and then want to get your job could save them selves lots of worry and trouble by going to a physician and allowing him to pick the 'good ear.' When you're talking to a man lots of times he'll turn his head just a little to hear better, and yet this same man will wiggle into a telephone booth and sob his heart out because we poor girls can't bring back the hearing to his dead auralicular."—Chickasha Express.

NEW BUILDINGS

Of George Peabody College for Teachers.

A few days ago excavation was begun for the manual training building, the first structure to be erected on the beautiful new, fifty-acre site of George Peabody College for teachers, Nashville, Tenn. It is proposed to have four new buildings ready by September, 1913, and, at that time, with an especially able faculty to open for students.

In quick succession the domestic economy building, a dormitory for women, and the psychology building will be erected. The cost of these four buildings to be completed within the next twelve months is estimated at about $350,000. The style of architecture will be Classic, with many details of Southern colonial. The whole group of buildings will present one harmonious style, with modifications sufficient to secure pleasing variety. None of the structures will be over three stories high. A series of units is planned and buildings will be grouped for convenience, architectural effect and greatest possible service. The best architects and landscape designer procurable, the college trustees and President Payne, assisted by an advisory board of specialists, have planned with care and skill the general layout of the buildings and grounds. This gives assurance that the College will have an educational plant modern, convenient and efficient.

It is contemplated that two or three buildings will be added each year until the whole scheme is carried out.

Peabody College, which was founded thirty-seven years ago as the leading normal school of the south, has already accomplished one phase of its work. It can now count nearly forty normal schools supported by Southern states to carry on the work then begun. Its graduates and former students number over eight thousand, and they are, in most cases, performing valuable service. And now, on a splendid new site and with larger resources

George Peabody College for Teachers will enter upon its new phase of teacher training service. It will respond to the changed needs in Southern education. It is intended that it shall be a great Teachers' College. It will not conflict with our valuable teacher training institutions, but will be of assistance to them all and will supplement their work.

Adjacent to the Peabody campus are the attractive grounds of Vanderbilt University. It is proposed that these two institutions, though separate and independent, shall exchange educational facilities, and it is hoped and believed that this co-operation will promote greatly the interest of education in the South.

CONVENTION HELD IN FOUR WARDS

This afternoon the democratic precinct conventions were held in the various wards of Ada and delegates chosen to the county convention which will be held Saturday. As there was no special issue to be settled, the meetings were very quiet and good humored affairs.

FIRST WARD.

The First Ward Democrats elected
John P. Crawford chairman and P.
M. Bobbitt secretary. After electing delegates to the county convention a resolution was unanimously adopted endorsing the candidacy of John P.
Crawford for the speakership of the house. The following delegates to the county convention were elected: Geo.
Harrison, W. T. Cox, A. D. Tanner,
W. H. Ebey, John P. Crawford, S. E.
Chapman and B. M. Bobbitt.

SECOND WARD

The Second Ward meeting was held at the office of Blanks & Wood and was attended by about fifteen democrats. Byron Norrell was elected chairman and J. B. Glibbreath secretary. It was moved and carried that the nominations for delegates to the county convention be made from the floor, instead of by a committee, and twelve or more nominations were made. Ballots were prepared and the result showed the election of the following as delegates: Tom Hope, C. T.
Angel, C. F. Green, Byron Norrell,
Leslie Maxey, T. D. McKeown and E.
S. Ratliff.

THIRD WARD

In the Third Ward the convention

COMMANDER OF SALVATION ARMY PASSES AWAY

London, Aug. 20.—Rev William Booth, General and Commander-in-Chief of the Salvation Army, died at 10.13 o'clock tonight. He was born at Nottingham in 1829. The veteran Sa-vation Army leader was unconscious for forty-eight hours previous to death. The medical bulletins had revealed the seriousness of the General's condition, which for a week past, it is now admitted, was hopeless.

Twelve weeks ago Gen. Booth underwent an operation for the removal of a cataract in his left eye. For two days after the operation indications justified the hope of the general's recovery. Then septic poisoning set in and from that time, with the exception of occasional rallies, the patient's health steadily declined. The general recognized that the end was near and often spoke of his work as being finished.

Throughout the commander in chief's illness, his son, Bramwell Booth, chief of staff of the army, and Mrs. Bramwell Booth, gave their unremitting attentions to him both night and day.

The aged evangelist died at his residence, the Bookstone, Hadleywood, some eight miles from London, where he had been confined to his bed ever since the operation.

CONVENTION HELD IN FOUR WARDS

This afternoon the democratic precinct conventions were held in the various wards of Ada and delegates chosen to the county convention which will be held Saturday. As there was no special issue to be settled, the meetings were very quiet and good humored affairs.

FIRST WARD.

The First Ward Democrats elected John P. Crawford chairman and P. M. Bobbitt secretary. After electing delegates to the county convention a resolution was unanimously adopted endorsing the candidacy of John P. Crawford for the speakership of the house. The following delegates to the county convention were elected: Geo. Harrison, W. T. Cox, A. D. Tanner, W. H. Ebey, John P. Crawford, S. E. Chapman and B. M. Bobbitt.

SECOND WARD.

The Second Ward meeting was held at the office of Blanks & Wood and was attended by about fifteen democrats. Byron Norrell was elected chairman and J. B. Gilbreath secretary. It was moved and carried that the nominations for delegates to the county convention be made from the floor, instead of by a committee, and twelve or more nominations were made. Ballots were prepared and the result showed the election of the following as delegates: Tom Hope, C. T. Angel, C. F. Green, Byron Norrell, Leslie Maxey, T. D. McKeown and E. S. Ratliff.

THIRD WARD.

In the Third Ward the convention authorized Chairman Davis to appoint delegates to the county convention. He appointed the following: A. L. Miles, C. W. Graves, J. W. Westbrook, Geo. V. West, Dr. H. D. Filmore, A. R. Sugg.

"Twas a fool quarrel, same as that kind gen'rally are. As much my fault as his and as much his as mine, I calculate. Anyhow, we was both proud, or thought we was, and neither would give in. And he says to me, 'You'll be sorry after I'm gone. You'll wish me back, then.' And says I, bein' a fool, I guess not. There's other fish in the sea." He sailed and I did wish him back, but I wouldn't write fust and neither would he. And then come another man."

She paused, hesitated, and then continued.

"Never mind about the other man. He was handsome then, in a way, and he had money to spend, and he liked me. He wanted me to marry him. If—If the other, the one that went away, had written I never would have thought of such a thing, but he didn't write. And, my pride bein' hurt, and all, I finally said yes to the second chap."

"Well, for the first year 'twasn't ad bad. Not happiness exactly, but not misery either. That come later. His people was well off and he'd never worked much of any. He did for a little while after we was married, but not for long. Then he begun to drink and carry on and lost his place. Pretty soon he begun to neglect me and at last went off to sea afore the mast. We was poor as poverty, but I could have stood that; I did stand it. I took in sewin' and kept up an appearance, somehow. Never told a soul. His folks come patronizin' around and offered me money, so's I needn't disgrace them. I sent 'em rightabout in a hurry. Once in a while he'd come home, get tipy and abuse me. Still I said nothin'. Thank God, there was no children; that's the one thing I've been thankful for.

"You can't keep such things quiet always. People are bound to find out. They come to me and said, 'Why don't you leave him?' but I wouldn't. I could have divorced him easy enough, there was reasons plenty, but I wouldn't do that. Then word came that he was dead, drowned off in the East Indies somewhere. I come back here to keep house for Sol, my brother, and I kept house for him till he died and they offered me this place here at the parsonage. There! that's my story, part of it, more'n I ever told a livin' soul afore, except Sol."

She ceased speaking. The minister, who had sat silent by the window, apathetically listening or trying to listen, turned his head.

"I apologize, Mrs. Coffin," he said dully, "you have had trials, hard ones. But—"

"But they ain't as hard as yours, you think? Well, I haven't quite finished yet. After word come of my husband's death, the other man come and wanted me to marry him. And I wanted to—oh, how I wanted to! I cared as much for him as I ever did; more, I guess. But I wouldn't—I wouldn't, though it wrung my heart out to say no. I give him up—why? 'cause I thought I had a duty laid on me."

Ellery sighed. "I can see but one duty," he said. "That is the duty given us by God, to marry the one we love."

Keziah's agitation, which had grown as she told her story, suddenly flashed into flame.

"Is that as far as you can see?" she asked fiercely. "It's an easy duty, then—or looks easy now. I've got a harder one; it's to stand by the promise I gave and the man I married."

He looked at her as if he thought she had lost her wits.

"The man you married?" he replied.

"Why, the man you married is dead."

"No, he ain't. You remember the letter you saw me readin' that night when you come back from Come-Outers' meetin'?"

Well, that letter was from him. He's alive. Yes, he's alive. Alive and knockin' round the world somewhere. Every little while he writes me for money and, if I have any, I send it to him. Why? Why 'cause I'm a coward, after all, I guess, and I'm scared he'll do what he says he will and come back. Perhaps you think I'm a fool to put up with it; that's what most folks would say if they knew it. They'd tell me I ought to divorce him. Well, I can't, I can't. I walked into the mess blindfolded; I married him in spite of warnin's and everything. I took him for better or for worse, and now that he's turned out worse, I must take my medicine. I can't live with him—that I can't do—but while he lives I'll stay his wife and give him what money I can spare. That's the duty I told you was laid on me, and it's a hard one, but I don't run away from it."

She stopped short; then covering her face with her apron, she ran from the room. John Ellery heard her descending the stairs, sobbing as she went.

All that afternoon he remained in his chair by the window. It was six o'clock, supper time, when he entered the kitchen. Keziah, looking up from the ironing board, saw him. He was white and worn and grim, but he held out his hand to her.

"Mrs. Coffin," he said, "I'm not going away. You've shown me what devotion to duty really means. I shall stay here and go on with my work."

Her face lit up. "Will you?" she said. "I thought you would. I was sure you was that kind."

CHAPTER XIII

In Which the Sea Mist Sails.
They buried Captain Eben in the little Come-Outer cemetery at the rear of the chapel. The Come-Outers were there, all of them, and some members of the Regular society, Captain Zeb Mayo, Dr. Parker, Keziah Coffin, Mrs. Higgins and Ike. The little company filed out of the cemetery, and Captain

They Shook Hands and Parted.

Eben Hammond was but a memory in Trumet.

Keziah lingered to speak a word with Grace. The girl, looking very white and worn, leaned on the arm of Captain Nat, whose big body acted as a buffer between her and oversympathetic Come-Outers. Mrs. Coffin silently held out both hands and Grace took them eagerly.

"Auntie," she whispered, "tell me: Did a letter—Did he—"

"Yes, it came. I gave it to him."

"Did—he tell you? Do you know?"

"Yes, I know, deary."

"Did he—Is he—"

"He's well, deary. He'll be all right. I'll look out for him."

"You will, won't you? You won't let him do anything—"

"Not a thing. Don't worry. We've had a long talk and he's going to stay right here and go on with his work. And nobody else'll ever know, Grace."

"O Aunt Keziah! If I could be one half as patient and brave and sweet as you are—"

"Sssh! here comes Nat. Be kind to him. He's sufferin', too; maybe more'n you imagine. Here she is, Nat. Take her back home and be good to her."

"I tell you," broke in the voice of Captain Zeb Mayo, "Keziah, I've been waitin' for you. Get in my shay and I'll drive you back to the parsonage."

Mrs. Coffin accepted the invitation and a seat in the chaise beside Captain Zeb. The captain spoke of the dead Come-Outer and of his respect for him in spite of the difference in creed. He also spoke of the Rev. John Ellery and of the affection he had come to feel for the young man.

"I'm glad to hear you say so. Of course Cap'n Elkanah is boss of the parish committee and—"

"What? No, he ain't nuther. He's head of it, but his vote counts just one and no more. What makes you say that?"

"Oh, nuthin'. Only I thought maybe, long as Elkanah was feelin' that Mr. Ellery wa'n't orthodox enough, he might be goin' to make a change. I didn't mean to stir you up, Zeb, but from things Cap'n Daniels has said I gathered that he was runnin' the committee. And, as I'm a friend of Mr. Ellery, it—"

"Friend! Well, so'm I, ain't I? If you ever hear of Daniels tryin' any tricks against the minister, you send for me, that's all. I'll show him. Boss! Humph!"

The wily Keziah alighted at the parsonage gate with the feeling that she had sown seed in fertile ground. She was quite aware of Captain Zeb's jealousy of the great Daniels. And the time might come when her parson needed an influential friend on the committee and in the Regular society.

The news of the engagement between Captain Nat Hammond and Grace Van Horne, told by Dr. Parker to one or two of his patients, spread through Trumet like measles through a family of small children. Annabel Daniels and her father had not expected it. They were, however, greatly pleased. In their discussion, which lasted far into the night, Captain Elkanah expressed the opinion that the unexpected denouement was the result of his interview with Eben.

"I think, pa," she said, "that it's our duty, yours and mine, to treat him just as we always have. He doesn't know that we know, and we will keep the secret. And, as Christians, we should forget and forgive."

Kyan Pepper was another whom the news of the engagement surprised greatly. When Lavinia told him of it, at the dinner table, he dropped the knife he was holding and the greasy section of fishball balanced upon it. Remembering what he had seen in the grove he could not understand; but he also remembered, even more vividly, what Keziah Coffin had promised to do if he ever breathed a word. And he vowed again that that word should not be breathed.

Keziah was the life of the gloomy parsonage. Without her the minister would have broken down. He called her "Aunt Keziah" at her request and she continued to call him "John." This was in private, of course; in public he was "Mr. Ellery" and she "Mrs. Coffin."

RECORD OF PEACH SHIPMENTS FROM ADA

The peach season has closed, so far as this section is concerned, and being the first time that the fruit was shipped to any extent in car load lots, must be counted as highly successful.

From figures given by W. J. Boyer of the A. R. T. Co. Ada is credited with 22 cars, Konawa 18, Tyrola 4, Tupelo 14, a total of 58 cars, of which 51 were moved jointly by the American Refrigerator Transit Co. and the Katy railroad. These went to various eastern markets, Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City, Scranton, Pa., St. Louis and Pittsburg included. The quality was about average, but could be improved at least 100 per cent by close attention to trees early in the season.

To handle this large quantity of fruit 694,800 pounds of ice was used, nearly all of which was purchased from the Ada factory, and Mr. Boyer estimates that 350,000 pounds more would be used for re-icing en route. He hopes that fully three times as much will be shipped from Ada next year, and extends his thanks on behalf of the company and himself for the courtesies shown him while here and also wishes this section a busy and happy season.

Manager Frick of the ice factory, says that including the cars re-iced, he supplied 91 cars during the rush. Some of these that he ficed came from as far as Shawnee.

Not a lot of us can see Niagara Falls in reality, but this evening every one may see them as the moving picture artists makes possible, and that is almost as good. The great cataract in all its grandeur is shown. Also, one is given a view of the rapids above and below the falls, as well as every detail of this wonder of nature. In addition to this picture, there will be a breezy western comedy, A Western Legacy. At the Majestic this evening

Miss Helen Baker, who was teacher of piano in the Normal last year, returned to Ada yesterday. She has been spending the summer in Canada and announces that the weather is cool and pleasant up there. By some means, however, she says it was not so good but that she still had a yearning for the breezes of Oklahoma.

Two good pictures at the De Sota this evening, "A Sister's Sacrifice," which is a drama telling a modern office story; Daredevil Dick, a Western comedy drama. These two pictures, one from the modern city and the other from the great West, gives one a quick good variety. Coming soon Called Back.

THE NEWS

WE DELIVER COAL
promptly, and without making a lot of dirt about it. SOMEWHAT HEAVY are the tons of coal we send to our customers. Never a pound below the weight. And it is free from dirt and stones—every piece burns and gives heat. Can't find any better coal at any price.

Remember if you get 1500 lbs. of lump coal and 500 lbs. of slack for a ton you have really only 1500 lbs. of coal as the slack is worthless to you. We would not let you have slack if you wanted it as we need it for our boilers, so be sure and get our prices before you buy.
